

Career Connection – Entomologist

Entomologists study insects. They work in different areas and may study unique topics, such as insect nutrition or reproduction. Some are involved with agriculture, investigating how insects impact crops. Some insects love these foods as much as we do and will eat plants. This behavior reduces how much food a farmer can grow and sell.

Entomologists work with other scientists to study insect feeding behaviors, which helps farmers and people like you and me that enjoy food from the garden!